DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
   The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 1, the phrases "for example" and "such as" render the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether the limitation(s) following the phrase are part of the claimed invention. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

Dependent claims 2, 3 are also rejected for the same reason since they are dependent on a rejected base claim and contain the same problem(s).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 2674

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Baetz et al (DE 29719794 hereinafter Baetz) in view of Acquadro et al (US. PAT. NO. 3,706,973 hereinafter Acquadro).

Baetz discloses a computer keyboard having a Euro key in an input keyboard by redesignating an existing input key or by addition of a new input key. Baetz does not explicitly disclose how to update the software for the use of the interchangeable Euro key. Acquadro teaches a keyboard device comprising a keyboard driver and computer software (e.g. the interchangeable key cap and the software correlates to a kit for changing a key) for updating the software for the use of an interchangeable key (col. 7, lines 4-10). Thus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the keyboard of Baetz to have the feature as taught by Acquadro so as to 'permit the flexibility required to service an almost unlimited number of key configuration and codes with the same keyboard'.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Schoovaerts et al (EP 0 945 808) teaches a tape printing apparatus.

Nichol et al (US. PAT. NO. 6,050,825) teaches an one-size-fits-all computer keyboard cover.

Jaeger (US. PAT. NO. 6,441,806) teaches a operator/circuit interface with integrated display screen.
